Best Practices For Communicating with Congress

Excerpted and adapted from a helpful report by the Congressional Management Foundation

Sending a letter to [or calling] a member of Congress is not equivalent to casting a ballot or answering a survey, where the choice with the most responses “wins.” Sending a letter to a member of Congress is more like giving a speech at a town meeting or writing a letter to the editor. The content matters. The operating assumption of many congressional staff is that the more thought constituents give to the communication, the more passionately they care about the issue. Quality messages are those that are:

- 1. Personalized. Even just one relevant and personalized sentence or paragraph in an otherwise generic message conveys some sense of a constituent’s sentiment. The more personalized the message, the better. It significantly helps the communication if one’s personal views, experiences, and the reasons for one’s opinions are included in the message.
- 2. Short. Congressional staff review hundreds of letters every week, so covering an issue in a few short paragraphs helps them immensely.
- 3. Targeted. Messages that convey knowledge of specific legislation, the Member’s stance on the issue, and the impact the legislation will have on the Member’s constituents, district, or state tend to be much more persuasive than generic messages.
- 4. Informative. Congressional offices do not have the resources to research and track every bill, so they focus on legislation being considered in their Members’ committees or by the full House or Senate. Often constituents bring new legislation to their attention, requiring staff to do research so as to be able to discuss and respond to it. For this reason, quality messages contain specific information about the legislation in question.

PEACE DEMANDS ACTION: A MESSAGE ON USING THIS SCORECARD

Dear Friends,

Our world is getting smaller by the minute. That's why the world's citizens must take an active interest in the actions of their governments. Here in the United States, where our government's actions have an impact in every corner of the globe, we need an engaged and informed public to hold our elected officials accountable.

What you hold in your hands is a tool to inform you – and to help you take action.

Far too often narrow political calculations guide representatives when they vote on life and death foreign policy issues. Countless votes are based on an instinctive political fear of appearing “soft on defense.” That's true whether the issue is Iraq, nuclear weapons, or the military budget. Many members of Congress also believe that their constituents simply don't care about international relations. They think that the average voter's views on foreign policy issues are informed by a parochial nationalism.

But poll after poll shows that Americans do care deeply about international relations and their views are as principled as they are pragmatic. Most Americans want a foreign policy that embodies the best values of this country. We want a foreign policy guided by the principles of international cooperation and human rights. When there are conflicts between countries we want smart diplomacy to reduce those tensions. When other countries are wracked by poverty, disease or national disaster, we want a government response that blends intelligence and generosity.

There is a big gap between how the politicians in Washington vote and how the folks back home want the U.S. to conduct our relationship with the rest of the world. This scorecard is a study of that gap – where it is and on what issues.

When there was a vote to bring the troops home from Iraq where did your representative stand?

Did he or she stand up to the president's Iraq policy? Or did they fall prey to the simplistic notion that funding the war was the same as supporting the troops?

Did your representative vote to build new nuclear weapons or to encourage the spread of nuclear weapons technology around the world?

Read this scorecard and you know the score.

Knowing the score is of course only a start. We invite you to let your representative know that you know. Communicate your views often by calling, writing or e-mailing – or better yet visiting -- their office. And when election time rolls around vote your views.

Over the long-tem, working together we can make sure when the U.S. speaks in the world it speaks with your voice.

BEST AND WORST OF CONGRESS IN 2006

BEST

CONGRESS RESTORED THE BAN ON PERMANENT U.S. MILITARY BASES IN IRAQ.

In 2006, members of Congress debated what many would see as a clear-cut case of right versus wrong—the US should not build permanent military bases in Iraq. The House of Representatives overwhelmingly voted in support of banning permanent US military bases in Iraq, and both the House and the Senate included provisions in their respective FY2007 Defense Authorization bills to ban such bases. Despite these clear actions, the small conference committee of senators and representatives responsible for reconciling the differences between the House Defense Authorization bill and the Senate Defense Authorization bill stripped the “no permanent bases” provision from the bill. The actions of the conference committee infuriated Rep. Barbara Lee (D-CA) and Rep. Tom Allen (D-ME), who led the fight to ban the bases, and fought to get the provision included in the FY2007 Defense Appropriations bill. This time the language remained in the bill and passed into law.

WE MADE PROGRESS IN CONTROLLING THE LETHAL ILLICIT ARMS TRADE.

Stockpiles of conventional weapons, such as AK-47s and shoulder-fired missiles, fuel destabilizing conflicts across the globe, facilitate human rights violations, and pose a threat to U.S. soldiers in Iraq and elsewhere. This is an easily fixable problem—it costs roughly $1-5 to destroy a gun and it's easy to do with the right training. Under the bipartisan leadership of Sen. Dick Lugar (R-IN), Sen. Barack Obama (D-IL), Rep. Ed Royce (R-CA), and Rep. Brad Sherman (D-CA), Congress passed legislation that increased funds for US grants that help countries destroy surplus weapons stockpiles. Also in 2006, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-CA) led 70 of his colleagues in sending a letter to Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice regarding US support for stricter controls on the international arms trade at the UN conference on small arms and light weapons held in June.

WE SAW REAL ACTION ON SECURING LOOSE NUCLEAR MATERIALS.

The US knows how to clean up and secure loose nuclear materials and has a track record of successful efforts to do so, yet the threat to our country from these materials remains, in part because the administration under-funds and deprioritizes cleanup programs. However, in the final funding bill for FY2007, Congress uncharacteristically increased the funds for cleaning up unsecured nuclear materials around the world to nearly $70 million. The programs increased include the Global Threat Reduction Initiative, which focuses on securing highly enriched uranium at nuclear research reactors.

WORST

CONGRESS TAKES LONG WEEKENDS. REALLY LONG.

In 2006, the House of Representatives was in session for a mere 101 days, the record for the fewest days in session since the end of World War II. The Senate met for a little longer, a whopping 138 days. When the 109th Congress adjourned on December 9, 2006 it had barely scratched the surface of its annual responsibility. It completed only two of the 13 annual spending bills, passing a short-term resolution funding the rest of the FY2007 budget at the same level as 2006, passing the buck for finalizing the spending to the incoming 110th Congress.

CONGRESS FAILED TO BLOCK NUCLEAR TRANSFERS TO INDIA.

As President Bush pushed his proposal to transfer civilian nuclear technology to India, Rep. Ed Markey (D-MA) introduced legislation opposing the proposed deal. Twenty-three representatives cosponsored the legislation, demonstrating their concerns that this deal set a dangerous precedent by bending the rules for a country that hadn't signed the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, and compromised international efforts to convince Iran and North Korea to give up nuclear weapons.

However, when the final proposal was put to a full vote in the House, ten of the representatives who signed on to the Markey bill flipped to support the president's plan. These representatives were Rep. Capuano (D-MA), Rep. Filner (D-CA), Rep. Frank (D-MA), Rep. McGovern (D-MA), Rep. Meehan (D-MA), Rep. Neal (D-MA), Rep. Napolitano (D-CA), Rep. Olver (D-MA), Rep. Simmons (D-CT) and Rep. Upton (R-MI). Some claimed that enough changes had been made in the president's plan to assuage their concerns, despite the arms control community's agreement that the president's proposal was still extremely detrimental to controlling the spread of nuclear weapons.

BILL DESCRIPTIONS

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Use the color-coded icons to easily differentiate the good from the bad. Each “🌐” represents a bill we supported. Each “☢️” represents a bill we opposed. Members of Congress who abstained or were absent are marked with an “NV” and the missed vote does not count against their final total.

* Some resolutions are non-binding, and therefore don't carry the force of law. Non-binding resolutions are often used as a political tool to get policymakers on the record on an issue. We've marked non-binding resolutions with an “*”.

CONFLICT IN THE MIDDLE EAST

- 1 🌐 FUNDING THE OCCUPATION OF IRAQ (RC #65)
Instead of requesting funds for the war in Iraq through the regular budget process, President Bush has insisted on using expedited, unrestricted emergency supplemental funding. In a calculated political move, the president combined funding for Hurricane Katrina relief with the Iraq war funding in House Resolution 4939. Of the $91.95 billion included in this resolution, approximately $70 billion was for ongoing military action in Iraq. Passed 348-71.
- 2 ☢️ ALLOWING PERMANENT U.S. MILITARY BASES IN IRAQ (RC #296)
Thanks to the leadership of Rep. Barbara Lee (D-CA) and Rep. Tom Allen (D-ME), the 109th Congress passed a measure to prevent the building of permanent US military bases in Iraq. This provision helps hold the Bush administration's feet to the fire regarding its claims that the US has no plans for a permanent presence in Iraq. Amendment 1059 to House Resolution 5631 would have reversed this measure and restored the US ability to create permanent military bases in Iraq. Rep. Pete King (R-NY) sponsored this amendment. Failed 50-376.
- 3 🌐 POLITICIZING THE WAR IN IRAQ (RC #288)
As public opposition to the war in Iraq grew, Republican leadership in the House attempted to embarrass supporters of a withdrawal of US troops by forcing a vote that tied the war on terror with the war in Iraq. *House Resolution 861 expressed congressional support for fighting Al-Qaeda, but also explicitly opposed setting a timetable for withdrawal from Iraq. Rep. Henry Hyde (R-IL) sponsored this bill. Passed 256-153, with 5 representatives voting “present.”

- 4 🌐 PROHIBITING MILITARY ACTION AGAINST IRAN (RC #300)
In June 2006, the Bush administration's bellicose rhetoric regarding Iran and its nuclear program grew to a fever pitch. The public and some members of Congress grew concerned that the president may have been considering a preemptive military strike, and possibly a nuclear strike. Amendment 1072 to House Resolution 5631 addressed concerns that President Bush might not seek congressional approval for such an attack. The amendment would have prohibited the use of any funds in the Defense Appropriations bill to undertake military action against Iran. Rep. Maurice Hinchey (D-NY) sponsored this amendment. Failed 158-262.
- 5 ☢️ ENDORSING VIOLENCE IN THE MIDDLE EAST (RC #391)
In the summer of 2006, war broke out in the Middle East between Israel and Hezbollah. Roughly a thousand civilians – many of them children – died in the war. Almost a million Lebanese civilians were forced to flee their homes. Human rights groups documented human rights and humanitarian law violations on both sides. Early in the crisis, when many human rights groups were calling for an immediate cease-fire, the House passed *House Resolution 921, which offered unconditional support for Israeli military action. Taking sides without offering diplomatic solutions or addressing the human rights concerns only decreased US diplomatic leverage and arguably prolonged the crisis. Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) sponsored the resolution. Passed 410-8, with 4 representatives voting “present.”

THE SPREAD OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS

- 6 🌐 CUTTING FUNDS FOR MISSILE DEFENSE (RC #142)
At $10 billion per year, missile defense is America's largest single weapons expenditure, yet it has not been successfully tested, offers no protection against terrorism, and encourages other countries to expand or pursue their own nuclear programs. Amendment 819 to House Resolution 5122 would have reined in this wasteful program, prohibiting the deployment of new weapons and reducing the program's budget by nearly $5 billion. It was sponsored by Rep. Rush Holt (D-NJ) and Rep. John Tierney (D-MA). Failed 124-301.

7  PREVENTING THE HAZARDOUS REUSE OF NUCLEAR WASTE (RC #197)

The Global Nuclear Energy Partnership (GNEP) is President Bush's plan to revive the reprocessing of nuclear waste. Reprocessing is an extremely expensive and polluting process that increases the risk of nuclear weapons proliferation. Amendment 914 to House Resolution 5427 would have cut funding for this program by $40 million. It was sponsored by Rep. Ed Markey (D-MA). Failed 128-295.

8  CLEANING UP LOOSE NUCLEAR MATERIALS (RC #199)

More than 40 countries store the materials needed to make nuclear weapons. Most locations have weak security systems; in some cases, as little as a night watchman and a chain-link fence guard the dangerous material. The Global Threat Reduction Initiative secures and removes high-risk nuclear materials around the world, and Amendment 917 to House Resolution 5427 increased funding for this critical program by nearly $30 million. The amendment was sponsored by Rep. Rob Andrews (D-NJ). Passed 227-195.

9,10,11 NUCLEAR DEAL WITH INDIA

In July 2005, President Bush and Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh announced a plan for the US to share civilian nuclear technology with India, even though India has not signed the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty nor agreed to stop developing nuclear weapons. At a time when the world is working to convince North Korea and Iran to give up their nuclear ambitions, this deal sets a dangerous precedent for nuclear sharing and sends the wrong message to the rest of the world.

9  House Resolution 5682 (RC#411) allowed this deal to proceed. It was sponsored by Rep. Henry Hyde (R-IL) and Rep. Tom Lantos (D-CA). Passed 359-68.

10  A serious concern regarding the US-India nuclear deal was its potential to increase India's nuclear weapons arsenal. If the US provides nuclear material for generating power, arms control advocates worry that India could use more of its domestic nuclear material supply for weapons. Amendment 1194 to House Resolution 5682 (RC# 408) would have required as part of the deal an annual certification demonstrating that India had not increased the level of domestic uranium used in its weapons program. Rep. Brad Sherman (D-CA) sponsored this amendment. Failed 155-268.

11  The recognized nuclear weapons states—the US, Britain, France, Russia and China—have all halted production of fuel for nuclear weapons, known as fissile material. Amendment 1195 to House Resolution 5682 (RC# 409) would have required as part of the deal that India play by the same rules and end its production of these materials. Rep. Howard Berman (D-CA) and Rep. Ellen Tauscher (D-CA) sponsored this amendment. Failed 184-241.

HUMAN RIGHTS & MILITARY AID

12  HALTING GENOCIDE IN DARFUR (RC #46)

In over three years of conflict in Darfur, Sudan, 400,000 people have been killed and more than 2 million innocent civilians have been forced to flee their homes. Amendment 709 to House Resolution 4939 increased US funds for peacekeeping activities in the region. Rep. Michael Capuano (D-MA) sponsored the amendment. Passed 213-208.

13  INCREASING HUMANITARIAN AID FOR REFUGEES (RC #242)

Recent international crises like the tsunami in Southeast Asia and the genocide in Sudan have reminded the world of the need for robust emergency humanitarian relief efforts for refugees. Amendment 991 to House Resolution 5522 would have increased funding for these efforts by $30 million by transferring the money from drug crop aerial fumigation programs in Colombia. Aerial fumigation has proved ineffective in reducing the drug trade, as coca farmers just move to another location after one area is sprayed. Moreover, the fumigation destroys families' food crops, pollutes water sources, and damages delicate ecosystems. Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) sponsored the amendment. Failed 174-229.

14  CLOSING CONTROVERSIAL MILITARY TRAINING CAMP (RC #243)

In 1999, Congress voted to close the School of the Americas (SOA), the controversial Pentagon training facility for Latin American soldiers. Congress then replaced it the next year with the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC), a facility with a nearly identical mission. Graduates of SOA/WHINSEC are infamous for some of the gravest human rights abuses in Latin America over the past twenty years. Amendment 995 to House Resolution 5522 would have eliminated the WHINSEC/SOA. Rep. Jim McGovern (D-MA) sponsored the measure. Failed 188-218.

BILL DESCRIPTIONS

Senate

CONFLICT IN THE MIDDLE EAST

1 FUNDING THE OCCUPATION OF IRAQ (RC #112)

This emergency supplemental appropriations bill, House Resolution 4939, funded the ongoing war in Iraq, as well as Hurricane Katrina relief (for more details, please see the House of Representatives section for a description of the same bill). It's important to note that the 21 senators that voted against the bill did so because of procedural and pork barrel spending concerns, not because of opposition to the war in Iraq. Later in the year, all 21 senators voted against a resolution that called for a withdrawal of US troops from Iraq. Passed 77-21.

2 RETURNING GREATER OVERSIGHT TO IRAQ WAR SPENDING (RC #170)

Four years into the Iraq war, President Bush continues to request funds for the ongoing occupation through emergency funding requests that require less scrutiny from Congress. Amendment 4242 to Senate 2766 requires future requests for Iraq and Afghanistan war funding to come through the regular, annual appropriations process so Congress can fully examine the proposal. Senator John McCain (R-AZ) sponsored the amendment. Passed 98-0.

3,4 WITHDRAWING U.S. TROOPS FROM IRAQ

As public opposition to the war in Iraq continued to grow, the Senate voted on two different amendments regarding a withdrawal of US troops from Iraq.

3  Amendment 4320 to Senate 2766 (RC# 182), called for the US to begin withdrawal of American troops from Iraq no later than July 2007. Senators Joe Biden (D-DE), Carl Levin (D-MI), Hillary Clinton (D-NY), and Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) introduced the amendment. Failed 39-60.

4  Amendment 4442 (RC# 181) to the same bill advocated a shorter timeline, calling for the US to complete withdrawal of all troops from Iraq no later than July 2007. Senators John Kerry (D-MA), Russ Feingold (D-WI), and Barbara Boxer (D-CA) sponsored this amendment. Failed 13-86.

5,6 PROMOTING DIPLOMATIC ENGAGEMENT WITH IRAN

As the Bush administration increased its aggressive criticism of Iran in 2006, many members of Congress and the public urged diplomatic engagement to deal with the nuclear dilemma. For a time, the administration was persuaded to pursue negotiations, and Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice indicated her plans for a renewed diplomatic push.

5  (RC# 173) In an attempt to buttress the diplomatic effort, Amendment 4257 to Senate 2766 offered support for a diplomatic strategy to engage Iran. Senator Joe Biden (D-DE) offered the amendment. Passed 99-0.

6  (RC #172) However, some Senators ignored this commonsense recommendation and instead attempted to inflict severe punishment on Iran. Amendment 4234 to Senate 2766 would have toughened sanctions on foreign governments and countries trading with Iran, undercutting Secretary Rice's diplomatic efforts. Senator Rick Santorum (R-PA) sponsored the amendment. Failed 45-54.

7 PREVENTING USE OF CLUSTER BOMBS IN CIVILIAN AREAS (RC #232)

A cluster bomb is an air-dropped bomb that ejects multiple small bomblets. Cluster bombs are very inaccurate and unreliable, and wreak havoc when used in civilian areas. According to Human Rights Watch, Israel used US-produced cluster bombs in civilian areas during its war with Hezbollah in 2006. Amendment 4882 to House Resolution 5631 would have required the administration to certify the weapons would not be used in civilian areas before the US could sell, transfer or acquire cluster bombs. Senators Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) and Patrick Leahy (D-VT) sponsored the amendment. Failed 30-70.

SPREAD OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS

8 AMENDMENT TO THE NUCLEAR DEAL WITH INDIA (RC #270)

For more detailed background on this proposal, please see the same section in the list of House bills. The Senate version of House Resolution 5682 included stronger provisions to prevent the increase of India's nuclear weapons arsenal than the House version, but did not go far enough. Passed, 85-12.

9 AMENDMENT TO THE NUCLEAR DEAL WITH INDIA (RC #268)

Throughout the yearlong debate regarding the deal to share civilian nuclear technology with India, a central concern was India's capacity to produce nuclear weapons. Amendment 5183 to Senate 3709 would have required that the India deal could only move forward if the president certified that civilian nuclear cooperation with India did nothing to assist, encourage or induce India to manufacture or acquire additional nuclear weapons. Senator Russ Feingold (D-WI) sponsored the amendment. Failed 25-71.
